Dominion Hill awarded four stars by Canada Select

Digdeguash, NB, June 25, 2018: Dominion Hill Country Inn was awarded four stars by Canada Select, the national service that provides professional rating of accommodations.

“Dominion Hill has undergone an extensive renovation and hired top professionals to run our inn and kitchen,” stated Michael Campbell, who bought the property in 2017. “We are honoured to be recognized by Canada Select for the high-quality accommodations and service we strive to offer every guest.”

Canada Select rates properties across Canada, providing the travelling public with a national consistent standard of quality. The four-star rating is defined as “exceptional quality in all areas of facilities and services offering superior quality throughout the property in guest rooms, bath and common areas.”

Dominion Hill Country Inn & Retreat Centre is an historic estate that was recently renovated as a country inn, meeting place, and wedding venue. Built by the publishing family that created The Saturday Evening Post and Ladies’ Home Journal, there are a small number of suites, rooms and cottages. The amenities include a wellness centre, yoga studio, hot tub, hiking trails, meeting space, and a beautifully refinished barn for larger events and weddings. The century-old manor house has a dining room, lounge, library and outdoor patio.
